1. Ted: Hey, do you think I can achieve an excellent score on the biology test?

Bob: Of course! Just make sure you study and do research beforehand.

Ted: That's true. ———

Bob: Sure, make a checklist of topics to cover and explain them in your own words.

- A) No need to study too much, the test is going to be easy.
- B) Just cram the night before and you'll do fine.
- C) I won't waste my time studying for the test.
- D) I heard the test is graded on a curve, so you don't need to do that well.
- E) Do you have any tips for studying?

2. Betty: I belong to a citizenship club at school. Do you want to join?

Fiona: ———

Betty: It's voluntary, but it's a great opportunity to learn about citizenship and affect change in our community.

Fiona: Sounds interesting. I might consider it.

- A) Is it compulsory or voluntary?
- B) How much does it cost to join?
- C) Is it only for students who excel in academics?
- D) Do I need to have prior experience in community service?
- E) Can I join even if I don't speak English well?

3. Brother: Can you explain the concept of adverbs to me?

Sister: Adverbs are words that modify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs. They provide more information about time, frequency, manner, or degree.

Brother: Thanks, that makes sense. ———

Sister: Thank you. I always try to practice discipline when it comes to learning.

- A) Do you think adverbs are similar to adjectives?
- B) Adverbs modify only verbs, right?
- C) You have an excellent understanding of grammar.
- D) How many types of adverbs are there?
- E) Can you give me a description of adverbs?

4. Student: ———

Teacher: Definitely. Inaccurate data can affect the validity of your findings.

Student: That's true. Have you ever had to redo an entry because of inaccurate data?

Teacher: Yes, and it's frustrating. That's why I always double-check my work.
